Historic Events at Annapolis Royal

(1) The second powder house of the fortress erected in 1708 at Fort Anne, Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, the walls are 4 1/2 feet thick. The first powder house was too damp.

(2) Monument erected by the Canadian Government at Fort Anne to the illustrious memory of Lieut. General Timothee Pierre du Guast, Sieur de Monts the pioneer colonisation in North America.

Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, has been the scene of many historic events in recent years. An addition to the number was added on August 21st, 1921, when three tablets were unveiled.

Amongst those identified with the event were: Hon. MacCallum Grant, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia; Hon. Justice Chisholm; Hon. Chief Justice Harris; Hon. George H. Murray, premier of Nova Scotia; Hon. Sir James Aikens, president of the Canadian Bar Association; Hon. Sir James Loughheed, Minister of the Interior; Hon. the Worshipful Mayor E. B. Hardwick, of Annapolis Royal, and F. C. Whitman, vice-president of the Historical Association of Annapolis Royal.

The tablet, placed here by the Government of the Province of Nova Scotia, A.D. 1921, commemorates the three hundredth anniversary of the issue of the charter of New Scotland, by King James I of England and VI of Scotland, A.D. 1621. The birth of an idea which lived, and had its final fruition

As each successive anniversary of Armistice Day has passed, the sentiments have been expressed among the people of the Allied Nations that there should be some tangible evidence of the reverence in their hearts for the heroic dead who made peace possible. The children of the devastated areas of France gave the nucleus of an idea which is rapidly gaining recognition, when they gathered the red poppies which grow in profusion in Flanders and Northern France, and decorated the graves of the fallen heroes, near their homes. The suggestion, from childish hands was seized upon by the French Children's League, which has been endeavoring to formulate plans in order to provide for the thousands of orphan children in their country. They placed the women and children of the war area at work making silk replicas of the poppy, with the idea in mind that they could be sold and the proceeds devoted to the pending need.

The local branch of the G.W.V.A. is getting a supply of small and large Red Poppies also will take orders for Wreaths and Crosses formed of Red Poppies. On Armistice Day every patriotic and remembering Canadian will buy and wear a Red Poppy, and the double purpose of honoring our fallen and at the same time relieve (continued on middle page)

Do You Believe In A Crucified Christ?

Here Is A Man who Claims He Saw A
Vision In Church

Remarkable Incident Is Endorsed
by A Clergyman

LONDON, Oct. 31.—That he had an objective vision of Christ on the Cross is the sensational claim of a hard-headed business man, a member of the congregation of the Parish Church at Brantree, 36 miles from London. Furthermore, his claim is accepted as fact by Rev. W.L.J. Sheppard, who has been preaching there, "I'm quite satisfied the man saw the vision he described," he said. Rev. Mr. Sheppard even announced the vision from the pulpit to the startled congregation, saying "During the evening service last Sunday a well-known Brantree business man in the congregation saw a vision of the Crucified Saviour in the chancel of the church. He said he first saw the vision while kneeling in prayer. A bright light from a halo on the head of the Crucified Christ filled the whole chancel and blotted out every other object. This is not a case of an emotional woman seeing a vision, but of a hard-headed man. The vision must be taken as a divine revelation." The man told Rev. Mr. Sheppard that when he first saw the vision he bowed his head to collect his thoughts and make sure of himself. Then he looked up again and the vision of Christ Crucified still filled the chancel. He looked at it about four minutes the second time. Then the light from the halo gradually faded, the vision disappeared. Rev. D. B. Barclay, vicar of Brantree, also believes in the reality of the vision. "I am quite satisfied the man actually saw an objective vision of the Crucified Christ," he said. "He told me the figure was quite distinct on the Cross. The vision of Christ did not speak or beckon to him but looked at him with pleasing eyes. The man became weak and broke into a violent perspiration."

The townspeople have been crowding to the church in the hopes of seeing the Vision.

—From Vancouver Sun.

More frequent visions like that as stated above, throughout the whole world would be a Blessing for the people of all Nations and would stop much wickedness and crime.

It looks as though Sir Oliver Lodge the great scientist is right

For many a long year will men and women who have heard of this Vision of Christ, gaze with doubtful reverence at the Chancel of their Church (where the Altar is placed) some hoping, some dreading to see the same glorious Vision of our Crucified Christ, who is able to read all good Plans as well as sinister Plans against others.

Even the mockers, if they dare to go to Church, will experience an undercurrent of doubt of their own conduct, not quite unkindled with some fear.

Many people will doubtless think of that beautiful hymn:
"Arise, O Lord and Shine."

ROCK OF AGES

The rock visualized by Augustus Toplady when he was inspired to compose the hymn, "Rock of Ages," stands just outside the village of Burdett, about 10 miles from the town. A great demonstration to perpetuate his memory was held there on the August bank holiday. Toplady is said to have taken refuge at the rock from a severe storm which was sweeping over the gorge on the edge of which the rock stands, and while waiting for it to pass over, he was led to compose the hymn.
This great pilgrimage to the rock was organized under the auspices of the Church of England, but a Salvation Army band also took part. The 10,000 people, some of whom were perched on jutting rocks on the side of the gorge, took part in the singing of the hymn. It was also decided that a memorial to Toplady should be placed on the rock.

distress among the destitute women and children of France and Belgium, will be served.

In Flanders Fields

In Flanders Fields were Poppies blown Between the crosses, rows on rows, which mark our place,
And in the sky the larks still bravely singing fly.
Scarce heard amid the guns below. We are the dead, short days ago we lived.
Felt dawn, saw sunset glow
Loved and were loved, and now we lie In Flanders Fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from falling hands we throw the torch.
Be yours to hold it high—If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, we know the Poppies grow.

LT.-COL. JOHN MCCHAP

This Hero was later killed in action in one of the big battles.
But he has immortalised his name and the heroic bravery of himself and his hosts of Hero comrades.
May we never forget their lofty ideals.
"No greater Love hath man than this that he lay down his life for another"

The Unbroken Line

We who have tried the borderlands of death,
Where courage high walks hand in hand with fear,
Shall we not harken what the Spirit saith,
"All ye were brothers there, be brothers here?"
We who have struggled through the baffling night,
Where men were men and every man divine,
While round us brave hearts perished for the right,
By chivalry shield-helm stained with life's rich wine,
Let us not lose the exalted love which came
From comradeship with danger and the joy
Of strong soul kindled into living flame.

By one supreme desire, one high employ,
Let us draw close in these narrower years,
Before we all the eternal vision spend;
We who outmastered death and all its fears,
Are one great army still, living and dead.
—CANON F.G. SCOTT, C.M.G., D.S.O., Senior Chaplain, C.E.F.

Crowds are buying the Red Poppy in Bow Island and Burdett and much regret is being felt that no wreaths or large Sprays were obtainable or the people of Bow Island and Burdett, as they were all bought up by the Eastern Cities of Canada.

Next year it is hoped that a very much larger quantity and a greater variety of Poppies will be sent from France, as we feel some thousands of Dollars more would have been sold if Western Canada had had a bigger supply.

A Whist Drive and Dance will be held in the G.W.V.A. Club Rooms on Friday, November 11th, under the joint auspices of the G.W.V.A. and Ladies Auxiliary. See Posters for particulars.

Warning to Motorists

By High Court Judge

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—"I give solemn warning that the time for light sentence has gone by. Hereafter killing by motorists will be punished; and if light sentences will not induce men to be careful in running motor cars, then more severe sentences will be inflicted" declared Mr. Justice Riddell emphatically today when he sentenced Harry Goldburg, convicted of manslaughter, to two years less one day imprisonment. Goldburg was driving the car on Bathurst street that struck Miss Rhoda Stein, resulting in her death.

This should be a lesson to all reckless driving motorists.

The Ogilvie Elevator company, who had the misfortune of losing their elevator by fire recently, have taken over the S. Baxell elevator and are now open for business again.

Hallowe'en night has for many years been a night of terror for many. Monday night was no exception in this neck of the woods. One can understand a few little kiddies going out in the evening and playing a few innocent harmless little jokes. But when a lot of young men of 20 or over accompany them, marching all over town, lighting over buildings and smashing same, scattering one's poultry, strewing neighboring wood piles, destroying fences and gates, smashing the wheels of a nearly new grain tank and many other fruitless depredations, one can well understand the citizens getting somewhat riled, they were, and sent for Constable Bradner, A.P.P. stationed at Bow Island, who came down next day and in the afternoon had the gang of kiddies all out of school and the young men all hard at work rebuilding our town, and some of the bigger ones claim they never worked harder in their lives. The citizens all seemed highly amused.

GRASSY LAKE, Nov. 8.—The shareholders of the U.G.G. in the district held a meeting last Saturday and some dissatisfaction was displayed over the slight U.G.G. elevator is run here. One can seldom buy a supply of feed and not an out of any kind can be bought. Mr. Dave Hall was elected to attend as a delegate at the convention in Winnipeg. The convention is to have been held this month, but owing to the Dominion election it was thought better to hold it later, so the date of the convention is postponed. Mr. Hall will take up the matter of having the elevator kept open all the year round and to having a better supply of feed, after kept on hand to supply the wants of the farmers.

Charley Hanc has returned from Saskatchewan where he has been to find work; he reports very little labor is wanted there.

Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Jones and family were moved into town and rented Mr. Watson's brick house.

Value Of Fall Rye As Dry District Crop Is Without Question

Owing to its adaptability to various soils, fall rye is growing rapidly into one of the many sections of the west. Although up until a comparatively few years ago this crop was largely given to a grain which was not being partially responsible for its growing popularity. It is particularly useful in the drier sections of the west where wind damage is common, and everywhere that livestock is a considerable factor in farming operations. Owing to the fact that it is largely able to resist the destructive action of the wind even when no severe that other grain crops would be failures. Its ability to resist rusting, its late fall and early spring are the reasons for its popularity with stock raisers.

The methods and dates of seeding vary greatly in the various sections of the country. The general rule is to sow at the rate of one and one-half bushels to the acre about the middle of August on ground which has been covered up as a summer fallow. The date. The advantages claimed for this method are that the land receives a partial summer fallow, and the yield both of pasture and grain is high. Another advantage is that the crop is able to develop a good before reseed, and the damage from winter-kills is practically nil. While a bushel and a half is the usual rate of seeding at the time of the first hard frost, it may be increased slightly, especially if the intention is to pasture the crop heavily or if for hay. In the latter case it would be desirable to decrease slightly the amount of seed shown. When seeding is delayed until the first of September, it is very seldom that the crop develops a sufficiently large top to enable it to go through winter without serious loss of damage from winter-killing.

Another method which is rapidly coming to favor is the mixing of winter rye seed with the oats in the spring, and in this way, enabling the land to produce two crops at a time. As the winter rye does not shoot the first year it is sown, but merely forms a green mat close to the surface of the ground, there is no danger of the oats containing winter rye when harvested, and the amount of seed made available in the first year of the fall is almost unbelievable if not seen. The recommended rate of seeding under this method is a bushel of oats and three pecks of winter rye per acre. Some good farmers recommend sowing the oats separately first, and then they are about three inches high, cross-drilling with winter rye. Slightly more seed is used when this is done.

The value of fall rye as a crop for the dry districts and where wind damage is common and also as a pasture and hay crop is unquestioned, and fall rye is destined to increase in popularity as its good qualities become more widely known.—By N. D. Mackenzie.

South Africa Wants Market For Maize

Collapse of German Mark Shatters Hope of Doing Business.
A further despatch from Cape Town says increasing difficulty is being experienced in finding markets for South African maize, the production of which enormously exceeds local requirements. Today's world prices are below those current in South Africa and it no longer pays the farmer to produce for export. Great hopes were entertained of doing business with Germany, but these were shattered by the collapse of the German mark and as a matter of precaution several large consignments intended for Germany have been directed to Rotterdam.
As a measure of retaliation for South Africa's restrictions on the import of wheat and boots, America is applying an anti-dumping act to South African maize thus closing another promising channel for export.

Area of British Columbia

British Columbia has an area of 365,000 square miles which is only about one-third the size of the United States. The area of all Egypt, with the former districts and the Libyan and Arab deserts. Without the latter, the area of Egypt has an area of only 28,812 square miles which is only 7,763 square miles greater than the area of Nova Scotia.

A Simple Tipping Gear

New Solution Has Been Patented By British Firm

The number of devices invented for raising the body of a wagon so that its contents may be tipped out to a dump in length. Most of the forms adopted are slow in action if they are simple, and if the action is rapid the mechanism is very heavy and complicated, especially where side tipping is used. As well as rear tipping is required: Some interest therefore will be taken in a new solution patented by a British firm. It consists simply of an ordinary jack fixed on the chassis immediately beneath the center of the body and operating in a ball-and-socket joint which enables it to tilt in any direction as the jack is raised or lowered. The body rests on hinges which can be adjusted for side tipping—either side—or for rear tipping. When the wagon has to be tipped, all that is necessary is to arrange the hinges in a suitable way and operate the jack by means of the engine on the car. The jack in tipping pushes the body over towards the side where the hinges remain fixed. The operation is quite rapid; and in the event of any breakdown the power the mechanism can be operated by hand. The only additional weight which this invention involves is the weight of the jack and the slides fixing it to the chassis.

Old Song Was Soldier's Favorite

Man Played "Home, Sweet Home" For Dead Son

A touching story of his experiences in conducting parties of visitors to graves on the Western Front was told by the Rev. H. H. Graham, general manager and literary secretary to the Church Army.
An elderly man, on reaching his son's grave, produced a small organ, and began softly to play, "Home, Sweet Home."
"You see," he said, "my poor lad always liked to hear me play this song when he came home on leave, and I would like to play it to him just once more."

It pays to patronize home industry, they say from the mechanic in his own town.

The Thief Paid

Chickens Cost Man More Than He Bargained For.

An Arkansas City woman made $85 on the sale of six chickens. A man called at her home selected them and said he would call for them the next day. He called but in the darkness of the night. The next day the woman missed the chickens, but where the coop had been she found a pocket containing $85. In it was the name and address of the man who had originally selected the chickens on the pretense that he wished to buy them.—Wichita Eagle.

The dog's whining and scratching at the heap until the man's arm was discovered, and he was able to get out of the debris. The animal had to be forcibly removed from the scene of the accident.

Father and Son Are Optimists

Have Stated Minister Claims Far From A Railroad

Two Canadians, father and son, have set up location claims upon great deposits of iron and coal in the Lake Athabasca district. This desirable place in the records of cheerful optimism. For the region is one that railroads could reach only after conquering hundreds of miles of quaking bogs. Outlet by water is impossible for bulky materials. The working season is only three or four months long. There are several vast reserves of fuel and metal in the world, some of the greatest being in the Antarctic continent, but their exploitation must follow the exhaustion of supplies in climates less rigorous. This will not come in the generation of the elder Canadian, or of that of his son, or of his son's son.—Toronto Star.

Both Working for Humanity.

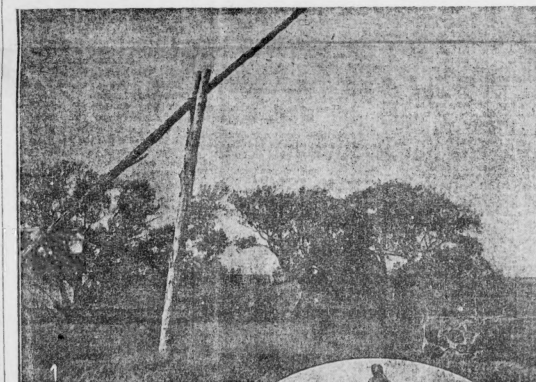

The story is told of a doctor (one land at the time of the great railroad strike who, when called upon to attend the child of one of the striking engineers, declined to go, saying he was himself "on a strike." The engineer protested that such a thing was impossible. The doctor's work was for "humanity." "No more than is yours," was the reply. Of course, the doctor went. But he had first taught his mind.—From the New York Times.

of the old church of St. Charles. It would be a landmark of the church of their ancestors.
Hon. D. W. Landry, Minister, presided at the dedication of the monument to possession of the plot and returned thanks to the Dominion Atlantic Railway for the gift.
Men and women met reverently at the ground, the tears streaming down their faces, murmuring blessings on the day that had restored to them the land of their ancestors. They plucked flowers and leaves and dropped their fingers into the water, all of which were more sacred in their eyes than words could tell.
The pilgrimage to Grand Pré took upon itself all the characteristics of a pilgrimage to Holy Land. In the past, said Mr. Landry, the Acadians had been regarded as an inferior class of people, and hence more easily intimidated. The ambition of the Acadians now was to unite in work that would make not only for the return of progress but for the advancement of all Canada. These sentiments were the sentiments of the whole race.

Things Which We Cannot Rub Out

Thoughts and Actions Leave Trace on Human Character

A wealthy young fellow was standing before a costly plate-glass window, idly scribbling upon it with a diamond which he wore on his finger. A small street urchin, after watching him for awhile with evident signs of displeasure, finally said to the older boy who was disfiguring the window: "Don't you do that no more; what yer doin' it for?"
"Why shan't I do it?" said the other. "Guess I shall do it if I want to." No, not.
"Because," said the younger boy, and his voice became earnest. "Because yer can't rub it out!"
Human character in the window upon which every thought, word and action is leaving its certain trace. And none of these trifles which rub out the marks which our daily lives are leaving upon our personal characters.

Hindus Fleeing From India

Moplah Natives Declare Home Rule

An illustration of what would be likely to happen in India were British rule continued is given by a despatch from Calcutta telling of a feature of the Hindu outbreak. The rebels are offering Hindus the alternative of death or Islam. If they hesitate, the victims are ordered to dig graves, and then, if they still refuse to embrace Islam, they are shot dead and dropped into them. Complete Home Rule has been declared. Those belonging to Hindus have been confiscated. The Hindus are fleeing; there are over 2,000 refugees at Peshawar.
Hindus and sixty million Mohammedans and white the Hindus far outnumber them, the followers of Islam are much the more virile breed.

Biggest Thing Of It's Kind Ever Seen In New York Says Druggist

The fact that 625,000 bottles of Tanlac have been sold in the state of New York since its introduction is more than one year ago, is a business item that will attract unusual attention throughout the state, for nothing like it has ever happened before.

It breaks all records.

Mr. George H. Evans, manager of the Gibson-Shaw drug store, the well-known wholesale druggists with branches in Albany, Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse, recently announced that the preparation was now selling in their trade territories alone at the phenomenal rate of approximately 100,000 bottles a year.

"If the present rate continues," said Evans, "this state alone will probably require considerably over 100,000 bottles a year. This is a tremendous figure, but I am really conservative in making this statement."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Every moment of the business and social day the block signals are giving right way to keep and alertness—while the slow and the heavy must wait on the sidetrack for their chance to move forward.

Survivors In Far North

Found Indians Who Had Never Seen White Men

Government surveyors and explorers carrying their lines across the far northern lands of the great Mackenzie River during the past summer knew the result of the Carpenter-Deane expedition. They found the survivors of the expedition, who had been on the streets of Eastern Canada since they arrived. They received news daily from them, and they were very glad to see them. They were very glad to see them, and they were very glad to see them. They were very glad to see them, and they were very glad to see them.

All the little they did by means of a portable wireless receiving set, carried by one of the three Dominion land surveyors, and they were very glad to see them. They were very glad to see them, and they were very glad to see them. They were very glad to see them, and they were very glad to see them.

He explained that his colleagues and himself had seen lakes of 20 or 30 miles radius that had never been known to exist; inland areas, some of the Dog Hills or other obscure Indians, that had never before felt the pressure of white man's foot, and magnificent waterfalls. One waterfall, formerly unknown, is in the Mackenzie River basin.
